Cross Identity Total Privilege Management™ (TPM)

www.crossidentity.com

TPM™ unifies all Privileged Account and Entitlements related administrative controls into one seamless suite.

Privileged Accounts & Entitlements are seeing a rapid increase over the last many years.

In addition to local and domain admin, service, and root accounts, SaaS applications all have Admin and other Privileged Accounts, and IaaS deployments have Admin Accounts and Privileged Entitlements too.

How does a business successfully manage this Privilege Creep without deploying a number of tools and in a unified and cohesive manner?

Cross Identity TPM™ is the only purpose-designed solution that can handle the entire range of Privileged Account & Entitlements use cases across cloud, hybrid environments, or on-premises environments.

Cross Identity TPM™: PAM + Privileged IGA + Privileged CIEM

Our complete Privileged Access Management suite includes all critical Privileged Access Management (PAM), Privileged Account IGA, and privileged account Cloud Infrastructure Entitlements Management (CIEM) features.

Why Unify?

Context Switches Are a Trap

Business IT and Cybersecurity administrators are already overwhelmed by their jobs.

Context switches occur when an admin must change programs to complete work started originally in another program. Like provisioning entitlements for a privileged account in one software and then managing access control for that same account in another software.

A study by Cornell University found that almost half of people surveyed said that context switching makes them less productive and causes fatigue. Context switching is a big cause of human error in business IT administration.

Cross Identity TPM eliminates context switching for all privileged account related administrative activities.

Contextual Dashboarding

Truth is that the effectiveness of a cybersecurity solution goes only as far as the expertise and diligence of the administrators that handle it.

Evolve from dashboards that just provide control sets. Cross Identity's Contextual Dashboarding combines Ergonomic Sciences and our unparalleled experience with Identity & Access Management customers to offer a choice of Contextual Dashboards that not only enable admins to do their jobs, but also empower them to think correctly and make the right choices.
